Flat Earth University Archives FE-Dome App for Educational Purposes

The Journal of Geocentric Cosmology LLC is proud to announce that we have archived the FE-Dome App, originally developed by Walter Bislins, for use in our educational programs at the Flat Earth University. As a non-profit educational institution, our mission is to provide valuable tools and resources to enhance learning and promote a deeper understanding of geocentric cosmology.

We acknowledge and respect the original work by Walter Bislins, which can be found at FE-Dome App Source Code(<http://walter.bislins.ch/bloge/index.asp?page=Source+Code%3A+FE-Dome+App>). Walter Bislins has made significant contributions to the study of celestial phenomena, and his work serves as a vital resource for our educational efforts.

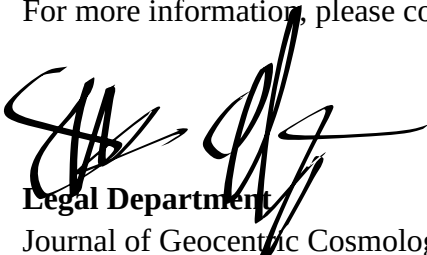

In archiving the FE-Dome App, we have removed all website headers, footers, and other non-essential elements to ensure that only the JavaScript and HTML related to the tool are preserved. This streamlined version of the app is intended to focus on the core functionality and educational value of the original tool.

It is important to note that the archived app is not being redistributed for profit. Our sole intention is to make this valuable tool available for educational purposes, benefiting students and researchers worldwide. By archiving the FE-Dome App, we aim to ensure its longevity and accessibility for future generations of learners.

Our efforts to archive and distribute the FE-Dome App are rooted in our commitment to education and the greater benefit of mankind. By preserving and sharing valuable educational tools, we strive to support the ongoing quest for knowledge and understanding in the field of geocentric cosmology.

We believe our actions fall under the fair use doctrine, as outlined in the Copyright Act. Our non-commercial, educational use of the FE-Dome App serves the public interest by promoting scientific knowledge and understanding without impacting the original market for the work.
